Krefeld zoo were having trouble with a very special two year-old male orang-utan named Hujan. Sadly his mother became very ill a couple of weeks after his birth and for a few days the baby had to be fed by the keepers while his mother had medical treatment. As her condition improved, the keepers tried to return Hujan to his mother but she refused to take him back. Over the next year Hujan was cared for by the keepers and attempts were made to get him back into the group of Bornean orang-utans at the zoo but the tiny baby was not accepted. Baby Hujan needed a family of orang-utans so Monkey World was contacted to see if he could join our orang-utan nursery. The answer was yes BUT our orang-utan creche was quite full so we decided it would be a better idea to put him in Tuan’s group where he would have three ladies to dote on him, an older sister in Awan to play with, and a wonderful male role model in Tuan.

Over the next five days I had a very special job to do and that was to get to know Hujan and his care routine. I wanted to learn as much as possible about him including his daily activities, behaviour, health, diet, character and I wanted to make friends in order to make Hujan’s journey back to the park and transition to life at Monkey World as smooth as possible.

On my first meeting it was quite obvious that Hujan was a very confident little orang-utan both in the way he was climbing and also in the way he very cheekily came straight over and stole my hat! This straight away instigated a play session and within minutes Hujan was snorting with laughter. As the days went by I learned a lot about Hujan and gained his trust. I was impressed at how outgoing he was and that his climbing skills were really good. Hujan’s main carer, Eva, had done a great job of hand-rearing him.

On March 11th, Hujan was ready for the journey back to Monkey World. After being slightly delayed by a big storm and driving 900 miles, we arrived home. The little orang-utan was relaxed throughout the journey and was welcomed by many happy faces of the Monkey World team, all very keen to see the new member of our family. I stayed with Hujan overnight in Tuan’s house to make sure all was ok. Hujan had an excellent night’s sleep and even made a small nest up high in a hammock. I on the other hand made my own nest and spent the night listening to long calls and the sounds of sleeping orang-utans.

Hujan has now met all the ladies in the house. They all love spending time and playing with him and he always spends the night with at least one of them. Next steps are getting him used to the outside enclosure and then putting the whole group together along with Tuan.
In March 2017 two of our golden-cheeked gibbons, Mikado and Tia-nang left us to go to Parc Animalier de Sainte Croix in France.

Tia-nang was born here at the park and had the best start to life with two perfect parents and two brothers, making her a well balanced and sociable gibbon. Mikado was hand reared after his mother died when he was just three weeks old in Zoo de Doue la Fontaine. He then moved to Monkey World where he lived with Alex, a disabled female. Unfortunately, as is often the case with hand reared primates, Mikado has a few mental health issues and sometimes has difficulty coping with day to day life.

When this opportunity came for a pair of gibbons to move to an island enclosure in France, we hoped that having a strong, well balanced partner and a new life would help to settle Mikado.

Over the last two years Mikado & Tia-nang lived together but they did not form a strong bond.

Mikado doesn’t know how to be a proper adult male and his behaviour was often a little odd, which left Tia-nang confused and frustrated. She would often present to him for mating and she simply didn’t know what to do. After much discussion between ourselves and the staff at Parc Animalier de Sainte Croix, we decided to return Mikado to Monkey World and send Zak to join Tia-nang.

Zak, like Tia-nang, was born here and had two great parents and a sister so is a solid young man. Although this situation was obviously sad for Mikado, it was a great opportunity for Zak.

On March 20th Mikado came home and it was lovely for those of us who knew him to see him again. He has grown and matured into a handsome adult male. On his arrival he came straight out of the box & tucked straight into dinner like he had never been gone. He was accompanied by Jessica, one of his keepers from France. Both had a long journey so it was an early night, as we all had an early start the next day.

At 5.30am on the 21st, everyone at the main gibbon house was surprised to see us as they were all sound asleep. We had a crate inside a bedroom which we had been using to train Zak to walk into to minimise the stress of the move. Zak was a star and walked straight into the box even at that unusual time. We then had to transfer Zak into the crate that Mikado came in. This could have been tricky but again Zak was very co-operative and walked straight into it. Then off he went! Obviously, saying goodbye to any of our primates is always sad, but we really hoped that this time it would work & Zak and Tia-nang would get their happy ever after.

Throughout the next day or two Mikado settled in well and has been rebuilding his relationships with the PCS he knows as well as meeting some new faces. Zak arrived safe and well in his new home and was given a couple of days to adjust & settle. Then it was time to meet Tia-nang, which was an instant success with both making positive contact and lots of giggles. We are all hoping that both boys are now in the right place and settle into their new lives.

Naree & Ash's New Family

The initial meeting with Bryan, Lulu and Rodders went well with a minimum of upset, as documented in earlier editions of the ARC. However, various attempts to see if Ash would behave in a non-aggressive or non-violent manner revealed that, NO, she had had no revised opinion on this matter.

After consulting with John Lewis, our trusty vet, we considered if changing Ash’s contraceptive pill would alter her mean attitude towards our new lady Naree, who appears not to have a nasty bone in her body. We believe this change is what altered Ash’s attitude.

After a further period of living alongside each other, moving the nice people between Naree and Ash, we opened up for the two girls to try again...Lo and behold Aschose to make friends, play nicely, groom, feed together, and even tickle each other with hysterical laughter! We now have the group complete with only the usual chimpanzee disorder to contend with!
SHE’S A RIGHT BOBBI DAZZLER

By Alison Cronin & Steph Sawyer

On November 20th, our slow loris Axl Rose and Nicki Mjnai gave birth to twins.

Usually slow lorises have a single baby but this is the second time that this couple have had twins. Sadly, the first two did not survive but they were tiny and to be honest the new set of twins also looked very small. We hoped that Nicki would be able to care for both infants, but we kept a close eye on them. After a couple of hours one of the babies was left hanging on the mesh but we were not too concerned as loris mothers are known to “park” their babies while searching for food and return to them within 10 – 20 minutes. After more than a couple of hours the baby was still left hanging onto the mesh and Nicki was not showing any sign of returning for the infant. We made the decision to take the baby that had been left and leave the other infant with Nicki and Axl hoping that they would be able to care for a single infant.

The baby was so small it was impossible to tell if it was a boy or a girl. But a juicy piece of pear is always popular!

The baby formula and the tiny loris seemed to perk up and become more active... but we still were not passing faeces, which was a worry. On day 12, having only passed a tiny amount of poo six days earlier, we decided to try a “poop milkshake”. We took a small amount of faeces from the parents, who we know are healthy, and added it to the milk formula in an attempt to give the baby the good gut bacteria that the parents had. If the baby had been able to stay with the parents it would have encountered their bacteria when clinging to mum and being cleaned and groomed by her. Whether it was a coincidence or not, the next morning the baby produced good faeces and has continued to do so ever since!

With some of our primates it can be difficult to confirm the sex of the baby straight away but this was a whole new level. It was impossible to tell if the little loris was a boy or a girl so we named the baby Bob, after Baldrick, as a playful, silly pair. The parents it was a coincidence or not, the next morning the baby produced good faeces and has continued to do so ever since!

The baby was TINY – only 34g! It was not going to be easy with initial feeds only 0.3 – 0.45ml from a dropper every hour to two hours. The baby was taking the tiny formula feeds, seemed bright and alert, but did not appear to be thriving and progressing. More concerning was that the baby had not passed any faeces until day six, when a tiny amount was finally produced. So little is known about lorises that there was not much information to rely on. We were concerned about the quality of the human baby formula and decided to add coconut milk to the formula to make it richer and more absorbable, as the fat in coconut milk is easily absorbed by primates. Slowly we increased the coconut milk up to 20% of the baby’s formula and the tiny loris seemed to perk up and become more active... but we still were not passing faeces, which was a worry. On day 12, having only passed a tiny amount of poo six days earlier, we decided to try a “poop milkshake”. We keep the amount of sugar to a minimum with veg such as cucumber. From a very young age Bobbi knew what tasted good - live insects!

Sadly, on day two Baldrick fell off of Nicki two times so we picked the baby up and tried to start caring for both infants. Whereas Bob was holding “his” own, little Baldrick took a couple of feeds from us and then passed away. A team of six of us worked together to make sure we did everything we could to keep Bob going and by week four Bob weighed 48g, week eight 79g, week 12: 122g, week 16: 201g... but was Bob a boy or a girl?! None of us could say for sure so we sent hairs off for DNA analysis and it was confirmed in the finest Black Adder tradition. Bob was indeed a GIRL. We didn’t really want to change her name so we have named the baby Bobbi Dazzler which seems very appropriate. The Dazzler has gone from strength to strength and has now graduated to live in the loris house full time and start meeting other lorises.

Starting introductions between Ms. Bobbi Dazzler and our next youngest lorises, Nora, was a scary process as Bobbi was tiny in comparison - Nora being three times her size. We decided to go slowly, moving Bobbi into her own bedroom at the loris house with small periods of mesh contact between the two to gauge Nora’s reaction. It was clear from the start that Nora was extremely excited about the prospect of a new friend, and we saw some really nice grooming through the mesh and even the odd play behaviour. Play for a loris involves hanging upside down with your arms either waving in the air or wrapped around the top of your head whilst wriggling around like a small furry lunatic!

After this promising start we began opening up the slides for a single infant. We were allowed them to have short periods of time together with the aim of gradually leaving them together for longer and longer periods of time. We were understandably a bit nervous when this happened being such a tiny little thing! Nora was having trouble containing her excitement!

Nora was rescued from the illegal pet trade in Lebanon. Becoming a little too over-enthusiastic at times, which caused Bobbi to become nervous and tell her off. As time has gone on we’re seeing some really nice interaction between the two, with lots of enthusiasm. Seems either from Nora, as we pick her up, and we will continue to build on this. Nora still has a tendency to get a little over the top with excitement, but Bobbi’s confidence and also her weight are steadily climbing week by week and we’re confident that as she grows, with continued daily meetings, the two ladies will figure each other out and become a playful, happy pair. All of Bobbi Dazzler’s care team are delighted that she is growing into such a happy, confident loris and look forward to her future, happily settled with Nora, as the two have so much potential to be a playful, silly pair.

Bobbi Dazzler is now 440g & loves playing.ϟ

Black-Shanked Doucs are in Trouble!

As certain species are targeted for the illegal trade, they are hunted to extinction, then instead of the trade ceasing, it simply flourishes in another species with similar traits to replace them.

The black-shanked douc is now targeted for many reasons. The adults weigh in at 12 kg each, in groups of up to 15 in number, thus can provide a lot of wild meat. When Jim and Alison first started working in Vietnam over 20 years ago, doucs were eaten as a delicacy, especially their intestines which were used in soup. Now the meat is dried as jerky and sells at the same price as beef.

With increased pollution in Asian cities, there is a steep increase in demand for traditional animal medicine, for respiratory health reasons and also, for male strength. It is used to be that tiger parts were used in traditional medicine to increase masculine health reasons and also, for male strength. The adults weigh in at 12 kg each, in groups of up to 50 in number, thus can provide a lot of wild meat. When Jim and Alison first started working in Vietnam over 20 years ago, doucs were eaten as a delicacy, especially their intestines which were used in soup. Now the meat is dried as jerky and sells at the same price as beef.

Doucs live in single male groups with many females, have large colourful genitals, and are now targeted by hunters to provide wealthy customers with traditional medicine for increased sexual prowess.

Whenever any wild primate is hunted, if its baby is left behind, it is very sad for the family, and the baby itself. The doucs are in Trouble!

In February we were called about an infant douc that had been rescued. Usually infant doucs come in very sick, with days of diarrhoea, dehydration, and being fed the wrong diet. Their gut flora is dies and turns toxic. The little douc that arrived was dehydrated but otherwise an active little girl with a strong sucking response. We estimated she was three months old.

Her mother had been hunted and the infant sold as a pet a few days earlier. A kind person bought her to release her back to the wild. The idea is kind, but money should never be paid as once the idea is recognised, and he started to reach out wanting to climb. With this increased brightness we were able to get his first milk drink into him. We were getting him rehydrated but he needed to start feeding, and adapting to this, very different life. We cleaned the blood off him and he relaxed, enjoying the warm water, like mum cleaning him. We soon realised the blood was his, a bullet entry and exit point was found. His arm was starting to swell, and was limp and heasy. Now the little male had to fight mentally and physically for survival. The next few days were very scary; he was feeding slowly, but was still too sleepy. “Me” was placed with him, to pull his ears and do some nice douc chatter so the little male would sit up extra time with his mum and had valuable knowledge of the forest. We hoped he would be able to share this with Me.

Seeing that the little male had been eating leaves, Phoung ran to collect tasty leaves known to be the favourites of doucs, but he would not even look at them. He must have been so young when his mother was shot that he was only taking a few leaves out of her mouth. With the company of Me, the little male is improving and both are now eating leaves in addition to their milk feeds which have the tasty addition of oak bark tea to increase the amount of tannin in their diet and prepare them for eating more and more leaves.

We named the little boy Anthony and we hope that in a couple of years they will join Thanh and his family, a group of four doucs we rehabilitated back in 2010. They are living free on Dao Tien and the group has grown to nine individuals now. We hope both these little ones will survive and make full release to join Thanh’s group one day.

In their large extended family groups, so to be alone for a douc is very hard. At this time we had no other doucs being cared for at the centre so we were all concerned for little Me.

On March 6th we got another call; there had been an incident of douc shooting, the hunters had been caught by forest rangers, and a small infant was still alive!

Two hours later a little male infant turned up, bigger than “Me” at 900g but in a very sad way. He was covered in blood believed to be from his mother. After being shot, mother and infant would have fallen 40m to the ground. This little male had spent this extra time with mum, learning the way of douc. He rejected the artificial teat for his milk and trembled with fear when handled. He just lay on his side and was giving up the will to live. In desperation we took the injured baby out into the forest, to experience sights and smells and to see the forest. The sight of trees made the little male perk up, and we realised how these two traits to replace them.

The little male would sit up to fight mentally and physically for survival. The tiny infant (430g) was returned to the wild, but could not survive on her own, and would have died of dehydration without her mother’s milk or by being eaten by a predator. She was found by the hunter a second time and sold again. This time she was bought by a famous Vietnamese photographer who has worked with Dae Tien before. As soon as he had her, he brought her to Dae Tien. With Phoung and Lee on standby the 24 hour care started in order to rehydrate the little girl, named “Me”. One of the biggest problems for doucs, sometimes greater than for other primates, is the sadness doucs feel when alone. Normally they are always surrounded by other doucs and infant would have fallen 40m to the ground. This little male had spent this extra time with mum, learning the way of douc. Winslow & Franco’s Capuchin Enclosures
The climbing frames in both enclosures were refurbished and expanded with the chainlink replaced and concreted into the ground. An extra tunnel was made to link Winslow & Franco’s enclosures so that the groups could swap days in and out while the work was ongoing.

Shattered capuchin window at Sonny’s group was replaced.

Marmosets Merry & Pippin, Guenon Biff & Woolly Enya

By Steph Sawyer, Claire Faichney & Sharon Perry

Merry & Pippin the Marmoset Twins

The new year brought a surprise for marmoset Ruby, who has unexpectedly given birth!

We now have a beautiful pair of baby marmosets, and are amazed with how well Ruby and her partner Oscar have taken to parenting. Ruby is a protective mother, and tiny father Oscar has been playing his part, carrying the babies around for mum, despite only being a tiny 290g marmoset himself!

This group now reflects exactly what a marmoset family should be in the wild, both adults working together to raise the babies, and providing love, play and teaching them about the world. It is amazing to see these ex-pet marmosets being such a perfect part of this natural family unit, and it highlights just how unnatural and deeply sad the lives of solitary marmosets in the shameful British pet trade are. Our two tiny additions have been named Merry and Pippin. Merry, the female is the larger and darker of the two and also the most feisty and confident. Just like her mum she loves insects of any kind. Pippin, the male, favours dad Oscar more, is smaller and paler and a little more wary. Both enjoy stealing food right out of Oscar’s hands, but he is a very tolerant father and lets them get away with anything!

As they’ve gotten bigger Merry and Pippin have taken to playing wildly in the hammocks and when they’ve worn themselves out, both curl up in between mum and dad in a sunny spot for a snooze, giving Ruby and Oscar some much needed rest!

We’ve recently given the family full outdoor access, and while both Merry and Pippin have made it out into the tunnel, neither have been brave enough to go all the way out into the enclosure. Hopefully some sunny spring weather will encourage both to brave the great outdoors!

Benny, Nia & their very special new arrival

Nia, our female red-bellied guenon gave birth to a healthy, if not unusually large, baby boy on March 25th.

As Benny & Nia are the only red-bellied guenons in captivity, outside of the black-market trade, we decided to let them have one baby to make them a tight family unit. Nia stepped into motherhood with ease, and both Nia and Benny are besotted with little baby Biff.

Biff has surprised us with his speedy development. At just a week old he was venturing off mum and within a couple of weeks, he was attempting a little tree climbing. Despite his adventurous side, he is still a mummy’s boy, and if she wanders too far from him, he will give a little squeak and she comes darting back and scoops him up. We are all very excited to see how the cheeky chap progresses over the next few months.

With its tiny face peeking through mum’s long chest hair, gripping tightly, and tail in a lovely tight spiral, all seemed well for the new arrival. It is a beautiful little girl, and in the tradition of our woollys, we have named her with the same letter of her father’s name…welcome baby Enya! Paulo is the dominant male in the group, but his second in charge is Enzo, is much more successful with the ladies! Enya is receiving a lot of love from siblings Oriana and Claud and she is becoming increasingly curious of the world around her, so it won’t be long before she starts to climb off mum and explore her home. And if she takes after her mother, she will be a force to be reckoned with! Pacaja is a fabulous mum, and they are both doing well.

Pacaja’s Woolly Bundle

Woolly monkey Pacaja gave birth to her third baby on March 23rd.

Love from siblings Oriana and Claud and she is becoming increasingly curious of the world around her, so it won’t be long before she starts to climb off mum and explore her home. And if she takes after her mother, she will be a force to be reckoned with! Pacaja is a fabulous mum, and they are both doing well.

If you are planning a visit to Monkey World, why not check out our fantastic range of accommodation available exclusively for our charity members and Monkey World adoptive parents.

Our new supporters flats, The Retreat & The Hideaway are nestled amongst the trees and are beautifully decorated throughout. They can be rented out individually or together, for a large group and are in the perfect location to get away from it all. Alternatively you may prefer our 1 or 2 bedroomed flats in the nearby village of Wool, just a stones throw away from the train station and within walking distance of local shops and amenities.

As an added extra, all stays in our supporters flats include early entrance to Monkey World and the chance to have the park to yourselves before it opens to the general public.

Prices start at £90 per night with a minimum 2 night stay - check out our website for further information.

For more information please visit www.jimcroninmemorialfund.org/local-accommodation/ or call 01929 462487

SKETCHING & DRAWING PRIMATES IN DETAIL

18th - 20th October

Join internationally renowned wildlife artist David Dancey-Wood for a weekend course, learning to draw primates. David is well known across the globe for his incredibly detailed and realistic drawings of wildlife, with primates in particular. David has worked with Monkey World for over 18 years as their artist in residence, and is now giving other budding artists the opportunity to learn from his experience.

Enjoy the experience of 2 full days of art and illustration where you will have opportunity to draw the primates at the park from life. This course is aimed at beginners to intermediate ability and will take place at the Jim Cronin Memorial Fund Education Centre. A list of needed materials will be sent out in advance.

The course fee is £230 per person to include 2 nights accommodation, breakfast, lunch & dinner on Saturday and breakfast, lunch and afternoon tea on Sunday.

Please Note: Spaces for this event are limited so book now to avoid disappointment.

NEW WEBSITE ARRIVES!

As many of you know, our website has been in need of an upgrade for a while! We have appreciated your patience while we have been working hard behind the scenes to build a new site. The site is now ready to launch, and we hope you like it!

You will still be able to find the site at www.monkeyworld.org, but now the giftshop and adoption process should be clearer and quicker to use, with no more long load times.

The site also has a whole array of new beautiful big photos of our primates, as well as updated rescue information and everything you need to know to plan your visit to the park.

Members of our ‘Where in The World’ scheme are now able to upload their own photos to the map - meaning it is even easier to fly the flag for Monkey World!

We hope you love it, and please let us know if you have any other suggestions!

ADOPTIVE PARENT NOTICE:

Thank you for your ongoing support! Without it, our work to rescue & rehabilitate primates in need around the world would not be possible. We hope you get great value from your adoptions, with the three newsletters a year, and annual pass to the park.

Unfortunately, we have discovered that some of our adoptive parent’s membership cards have fallen into non-member’s possession, and they are attempting to use the cards fraudulently to access the park.

To gain entry to the park as an adoptive parent, please don’t forget to bring your adoption card along with some ID to show at the entrance gate.

Thank you for your co-operation and understanding.

Over the winter we have been busy with repairs and renewals of the monkey and ape enclosures while the baby monkeys and apes are spending more time inside. It is a never-ending job keeping their homes modern and fresh while always planning for the future and doing our best to be prepared for new arrivals. After 26+ years the Templer Pavilions have been renovated and it is amazing with a new kitchen and three extra bedrooms with added tunnels for Bab’s community. We still have the brother boys able to refurbish this next summer, but the work done so far made Toprh’s introductions into her new family group a whole lot easier. You will be able to see Toprh’s and Naree’s introductions on the next series of Monkey Life. If you enjoy the programs and want to see more please message, email, write, or phone Sky Pick and let them know that you want more Monkey Life otherwise it could be the last series on Pick!

Over the holidays we received some very generous donations such as live insects, fruit, vegetables, bedding, bonios, nuts in the shell, vitamins, tub bugs, baby rice, and even a large tumble dryer. Everything is very much appreciated and put to use. Others have had fundraising activities including using our Pennies for Primates pots, asking for donations instead of gifts, organizing a pop-up shop, or having Christmas jumper fundraising days at work. Thanks very much to KONG Company who donated loads of kongs from their Play it Forward Program, Rockley Park for a donation from their Bonus Ball Draw, and Pymatek Automation for a donation of screws for our fine-hose harnocks.

Our thoughts and wishes are also with the families and friends of supporters who have sadly passed away. We would like to remember Joshua Bailey, Patricia Clinton, Beryl Bartlett, Barbara Blackman, Nelson Bowler, Sian Brown, Diana Cook, Royston Cotgreave, Alison De-Gare Pitt, Iris Dougmore, Evelyne Fairclough, Mary Gardner, Theresa Hamilton, Charlie Hayward, Richard Hayward, Philip Hill, Graham Howard-Barker, Verda Huges, Mary Ann Johns, Alison Lanes, Gwyneth MacDougall Mallett, Victoria Morris, John Nicholas, Michael Pallister, Carol Parkham, Shirley Parker, Freda Parkins, Jeffrey Penrose, Shirley Bowley, Peter Smart, Linda Smith, C A Stone, Shirley Treanor, John Williams, Rowena Wismayer. They will all be dearly missed.

The start of a new year has come with more new arrivals and there ARE more rescues to come which will fill you in on in the next issue of the ARC. We are here to help confiscate, rescue, and rehabilitate as many monkey and apes as possible that have suffered abuse or neglect at the hands of people around the world. Thank you for your continued help and support. Without it we would not be able to rescue as many primates as we do.

Endangered Asian Species Trust (UK Registered Charity No.115350) which supports endangered primate rescue and rehabilitation in Asia.

Without your help, our rescue and rehabilitation work would not be possible. If you are on holiday and see a monkey or ape being used, abused, or neglected, please let us know. Take down all the details and try to get a photo – we follow up as much as possible.

In addition to the list opposite, there are many other items we need to care for our rescued primates. Please see our NEW UPDATED Amazon Wish List that has all kinds of different goods that the monkeys and apes need. And remember our Bedding Appeal for any unused bedding, blankets, or towels. The On-Line Shop has loads of new on as many reports us.

As a supporter, part of the Monkey World family, and adoptive parent, we would like to tell colleagues, friends, and family about the Primate Adoption Scheme. All adoption monies go into a 100% fund for the rescue of more monkeys and apes and their ongoing care – every penny. Let them know that as an adoptive parent, they will receive a year’s pass to the park, a photo of the monkey or ape, a certificate, and the Ape Rescue Chronicle three times per year. Establish a legacy for the long-term welfare of the primates and be remembered in the park. Help us to rescue many more monkeys and apes in need.

Don’t Forget MONKEY LIFE SERIES 11 & Jim’s Dream are also available on DVD

DVDs can be purchased from the Monkey World gift shop and online at Amazon, priced at £20 + P&P.
